NO. 12

LEAGUE OF NATIONS ARTICLES THAT ARE ON THE TONGUE OF EVERY ONE

Since everyone is interested in several sections of the League of Nations we reproduce articles one, two and twenty and the annex so that each and every local voter can study the vital points for themselves:

Article 1.

The original Members of the League of Nations shall be those of Signatories which are named in the Annex to this Covenant and also of those other States named in the Annex as shall accede without reservation to this Covenant. Such accession shall be effected by a Declaration deposited with the Secretary within two months of the coming into force of the Covenant. Notice thereof shall be sent to all other members of the League.

Any fully self-governing State, Dominion or Colony not named in the Annex may become a Member of the League if its admission is agreed to by two-thirds of the Assembly, provided that it shall give effective guarantees of its sincere intention to observe its international obligations and shall accept such regulations as may be prescribed by the League in regard to its military, naval and air armaments.

Any Member of the League may, after two years' notice of its intention to do so, withdraw from the League, provided that all its international obligations under this Covenant shall have been fulfilled at the time of its withdrawal.

Article 10.

The Members of the League undertake in respect and preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all Members of the League. In case of any such aggression or in case of any threat or danger of such aggression the Council shall advise upon the means by which this obligation shall be fulfilled.

Article 20.

The Members of the League severally agree that this Covenant is accepted as abrogating all obligations or understandings inter se which are inconsistent with the terms thereof, and they undertake that they will not enter into any engagements inconsistent with the terms thereof.

In case any Member of the League, before becoming a Member of the League, have undertaken any obligations inconsistent with the terms of this Covenant, it shall be the duty of such Member to take immediate steps to procure its release from such obligations.

SENATOR SUTHERLAND
COMING TO LEHI

Mrs. Mabel Thurman Davis Will Also Be A Speaker and Motion Pictures Showing National Characters Will Be Exhibited.

The Republicans will hold their second rally of the campaign next Monday night in the National Theatre. United States Senator George Sutherland will be the chief speaker, though the address to women voters by Mrs. Mabel Thurman Davis who accompanies the Senator is creating much local interest. A campaign quartet from Provo will furnish the music. Another interesting feature of the rally will be motion picture films showing Senator Harding and Gov. Coolidge at their homes and making speeches. Another film will show all the Republican State Candidates being introduced.

Senator Sutherland has become a national character and has been spending the past three weeks at the home of Senator Harding in Marion, Ohio. He is being prominently mentioned as the next United States Attorney General should the Republicans win the election. Senator Sutherland brings the latest message of Senator Harding to the people of Utah and his talk will inform the people of Lehi just what the attitude of the Republican Presidential candidate's attitude is regarding the much debated League of Nations.

Mrs. Davis, the other speaker, was born in Lehi. Her father is Samuel R. Thurman, a former mayor of this city and now one of the Justices of the Supreme Court. She is a Republican candidate on the Salt Lake ticket for the State Legislature. Her address will be more directly to the lady voters. While Mrs. Davis is campaigning for the Republicans her father is making speeches for the Democrats.

LOCAL ITEMS

S. I. Goodwin made a business trip to Salt Lake Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Turner were Salt Lake visitors Sunday.

Lloyd Ohman returned home last week from Idaho where he has been employed for some months past.

Mrs. Richard Hutchings spent Tuesday in American Fork visiting with her mother, Mrs. Louise McCanness.

Charles Helquist, who is employed at West Jordan, spent Sunday here with his mother, Mrs. John Helquist.

Principal Junius Banks is the owner of a new Ford touring car. The purchase was made this week.

Facts About Constitutional Amendment No. 2

1st. The constitutional limitation of state taxes is 5 mills. Of this amount the public school fund is limited to 2.4 mills. Some students of the constitution believe that 2.4 mills is in excess of the constitutional limitation because a greater percentage of state funds is now going to the public schools than under the former constitutional limitation of 3 mills. Under the 3-mill limitation 43 per cent was allotted to the public schools. Under the present limitation 48 per cent is allotted to the public schools. The legislature cannot provide additional state aid for public schools under the present law.

2nd. The proposed constitutional amendment does not permit a change in the levy for general state purposes nor for high school purposes but permits a levy for general school purposes which added to all other moneys available for district school purposes equals $25.00 per capita of school population. Other moneys come from school lands and may come from an income tax for school purposes. In the event of the passage of an income tax an increase in the general property tax will not be necessary. The constitutional amendment does not make the amount of levy mandatory but fixes it at any amount not to exceed $15.00 per capita of school population. The tax rate will still of necessity be fixed by the Legislature.

3rd. At present under the constitutional limitation about $15.00 per capita is distributed each year to the school districts from state sources. The amendment provides for an additional $10.00 to be furnished by the state. If the state pays this additional money and the district does not spend it the local taxes can be reduced by this amount. At present the school districts are able to raise money necessary for education up to 7 mills. This amount is inadequate in practically all the districts. In case no additional state aid is provided additional money must be raised locally or the school program in these districts will suffer.

4th. Education is a matter of state concern. The state law compels attendance from all children of the state up to eighteen years of age. The state also requires certain qualifications of its teachers before they may teach in a public school. The state will not permit the local districts to set aside state requirements in education. Therefore, it is both logical and right that the state should provide an adequate amount of money, which, added to money available from local sources, will be sufficient to maintain state standards. The last Utah Legislature enacted what is now known as Utah's Educational Program. This program has resulted in a large increase of attendance, amounting last year to 49 per cent in the high schools of the state. It has put additional burdens upon every school district in the state of Utah. The success of this program will, therefore, depend upon the state's assuming a larger part of the expenses of education.

5th. Large business interests, public utilities and large non-residence taxpayers seldom object to the necessary taxes for education. The right of private property to be secure is only possible when an intelligent citizenship makes and enforces the law. Taxes paid for education should be considered an investment rather than an expense. A democracy is based upon education of all the people.

6th. If we assume that the money for this increased state aid for schools is to be raised from a general property tax and is not reduced by the same amount in the local districts it will increase the tax for state purposes about 2 mills on the dollar. The taxable property of the average taxpayer in the state is not in excess of $2,000. Therefore, assuming that the money is to be raised by general property tax, it will add to the average taxpayer's taxes only $4.00 per year. This additional money would so increase school facilities and school opportunities as to permanently place Utah in the front ranks of education in the United States. No taxpayer, if he understands the problem, will allow this small amount of money to stand in the way of proper education for his children.

7th. This amendment is in keeping with the traditions and present development of education as a state. Utah was one of the first states to consolidate school districts for the benefit of all the children. At present Utah is consolidated into forty school districts. The proposed constitutional amendment is one more step forward, in that it means the state is to assume its proper responsibility for the payment of teachers. The average cost of education per child in Utah is about $50.00. The state now proposes to pay one-half this expense for all the children irrespective of location.

8th. The business interests of Salt Lake City have recently conducted a get-acquainted tour through the state for the purpose of uniting the people of the state in a program of statewide development. Everywhere on this trip they preached the doctrine that county lines should be eliminated. The business interests realize that a prosperous state means a prosperous city and success to their business and without prosperity in the state at large they cannot succeed to the extent they desire. The same spirit should permeate education. The success of education in Utah is directly related to the success of education in every district in the state. Here, more than anywhere else, should county lines be eliminated and the state assume responsibility of providing education for all its children. (Continued on page 6)

KING ABLY DISCUSSES LEAGUE OF NATIONS

The League of Nations questions were ably discussed by Senator William H. King, Saturday evening in the Lehi Tabernacle. He thoroughly covered the question and discussed other political points that are receiving the attention from the speaking stands and the press. T. N. Taylor, nominee for governor on the Democratic ticket also gave a talk. His remarks dealt with state and local affairs.

The musical numbers on the program consisted of solos by Miss Taylor of Provo and Mrs. Masters.
